Oregon Prefers Dewey

Stassen Trails In Balloting

PORTLAND, Ore., May 22—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York held a 5,000 vote lead over Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota today on the basis of incomplete returns from nearly half of Oregon's 1,861 precincts in the state's hotly-fought Republican presidential primary.

The vote will determine the allegiance of 12 Oregon delegates to the Republican national convention.

Returns from 887 precincts showed:

Dewey 41,300; Stassen 35,493.

Stassen held a slim margin in 10 of the state's 36 counties, but most of his counties are lightly populated.

Multnomah County (Portland) gave Dewey 3,600 of his 5,000 vote advantage.

MORE IMPORTANT than the Oregon delegates is the prestige that goes to the winner. Some political observers had expressed belief that a defeat would mean the end of the loser's chances for the presidential nomination. Stassen had defeated him in Wisconsin and Nebraska.

The vote was one of the heaviest at a primary election in the state's history.

Scores of voters were waiting for ballots at numerous polling places at 8 p. m. closing time. Most election boards issued ballots to those (Continued on Page Two)

Coal Operators Hoping NLRB To Order Parley

WASHINGTON, May 22—Soft coal operators looked to the National Labor Relations Board today for the next move to get negotiations going on a new 1948 contract with the United Mine Workers union.

With John L. Lewis ignoring their latest bid for a joint bargaining parley, the mine owners apparently will sit tight and wait for action by the NLRB on unfair labor practice charges against the UMW.

The operators hope that NLRB General Counsel Robert Denham will act early next week to seek a court injunction to compel Lewis to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers Association.

Lewis' refusal to seat the Southern association and the operators' insistence on its admission broke up the joint wage conference on a new mine agreement three days ago before the parties ever got down to talking contract terms. The current contract expires June 30.

Thursday, the operators invited Lewis to try again to organize a joint wage conference but thus far the UMW president has spurned the proposal.

Tax Endorsed

COLUMBUS, May 22—The one-half of one percent Columbus payroll-income tax was endorsed today by the Property Owners Association of Franklin County. The tax will be voted upon in a special referendum June 6.

EMPLOYMENT BY TASS, Soviet news agency, of his 22-year-old daughter, Euphemia (above), has brought the resignation of John C. Virden as director of the office of industry cooperation in the Department of Commerce. Virden described himself as "violently anti-atheist and anti-Marxist," adding that he had not seen or communicated with his daughter since January.

'BOTHERED BY THE PRESS'

Misfortunes Plague Girl Who Prefers Red Agency

WASHINGTON, May 22—Misfortune overcame dark-eyed Euphemia "Mickey" Virden soon after the olive-skinned beauty took a job with Russia's Tass News Agency that subsequently caused her father to resign a high federal post.

This was disclosed today by tenants of the dreary apartment house in which Miss Virden lived alone.

They said that her frugal quarters, in Washington's Bohemian section, were ransacked and two rings and a bracelet stolen by a sneak thief after she joined Tass early last January. Meanwhile, Miss Virden disappeared under the "protective custody" of a burly Tass reporter who said he wanted to take her "where she can't be bothered by the press."

HER FATHER, John C. Virden, resigned as director of the Commerce Department's office of industry cooperation yesterday because of his daughter's ties with Tass.

At the same time, Virden disclosed that he broke all family relations with the girl when she went to work for Tass. He defended her as "a girl of high ideals" and asserted that the Russian news service was guilty of "exploitation."

Virden's resignation was demanded by Rep. Crawford, (R) Mich., in a letter to Charles Sawyer, secretary of Commerce.

Sawyer said he had urged the Cleveland manufacturer to remain because he had proved himself "violently anti-Communist."

At her apartment, Miss Virden refused to defend her ideals.

Cowboy Actors Nearing Home

CLEVELAND, May 22—Kenneth Beyer, 12, of Cleveland, was on his way home from Chicago today along with four of his teenage buddies.

Young Kenny and his four companions walked off with $6,000 of his grandmother's money Thursday and headed for Arizona. When they were picked up by Chicago police, they were outfitted in complete cowboy costumes, with one-fourth of their grubstake gone.

Frank Beyer, Kenny's father, explained the escapade thusly: "Kenny is just nuts about horses."

64 Circleville High Pupils Honored At Award Assembly

At a special "award assembly" at Circleville high school Friday, results of the recent district-state scholarship final examinations were announced as 64 students received recognition.

Edward Christopher Wolf and Leona Ruth Wise topped the honor list, each receiving a first place position in the district for their high scores in the fields in which they were tested.

Wolf received a state certificate for the district first place in American history and, he also placed second in the state with his score. Following up on the tabulations, it was revealed he placed second in the district regardless of the classification of the school, and 10th in the state under the same rule.

Miss Wise was given a certificate for her first place in the district in bookkeeping exam and for third place in state competition.

She also received second place in the district regardless of school classification and eighth in the state under the same circumstances.

Certificates also were awarded to those who ranked high in the preliminary exams.

Those who received the certificates were John Stevenson in biology, Robert Johnson in Physics, Roy Denham in chemistry, William Stout, Barbara Neff, Forrest Rinehart and Marjorie Thornton in algebra I;

William Clark and Edward Hixenbaugh in plane geometry; Raymond Goode and William Richards in American history; Robert McAlister and Peggy Andrews in world history; Mary Ellen Young in Spanish I.

U.S. Envoy Is Injured In Holy Land

Machinegun Bullets Down Diplomat

WASHINGTON, May 22—The State department announced today that Thomas C. Wasson, American consul general in Palestine, has been "gravely" wounded by gunfire in Jerusalem during Jewish-Arab fighting.

Wasson, 52, top-ranking U. S. official in the Holy Land, was wounded while returning early today to the American consulate general from a meeting of the three-power United Nations truce commission in Jerusalem.

The State department said that Herbert M. Walker, a member of the U. S. Navy communications unit in the Holy Land, also was "severely" wounded by machinegun bullets. There were no immediate details on this incident.

A State department spokesman said that Wasson has been under gunfire several times during the bitter fighting for Jerusalem, as he went back and forth to meetings of the truce commission.

INITIAL reports to the State department by U. S. Vice Consul William Burdette gave no information on the type of wounds suffered by Wasson.

The State department said that the following dispatch was received this morning from Burdette:

"Consul-General Thomas C. Wasson was gravely wounded returning to the consulate general from the truce commission meeting at the French consulate general. He has been taken to the Hadassah English mission hospital."

Burdette, 29, said that he is as (Continued on Page Two)

Thieves Lift Manhole Covers

CLEVELAND, May 22—Add one more solution to the list of odd robberies.

Cleveland police yesterday arrested two men accused of stealing precious metal from the city streets—1,710 pounds of it in the form of 20 manhole covers.

Police said the suspects hauled the covers away in a trailer and sold them as junk.

APPEARANCES ARE DECEIVING is a trite but sometimes true axiom. For example, you'd never think the mongrel held by officer Jerry Neuhauser, Albany, Cal., would turn out to be a hero. Yet, when the pooch at the bottom of the photo was struck by a car and couldn't get out of the roadway, his black and white friend darted into the heavy traffic and pulled him to safety. Officer Neuhauser who witnessed the incident, took the injured pup to the pound and had him treated.

SQUASHED under a big trailer is this passenger car, driven by Dr. Peter Jakocko, 40, seriously injured in the smashup on Chicago's southwest side. Driver of the trailer, Armand Leefer, Rossburg, O., said he lost control while trying to turn a corner.

ONE PLANT DISAGREES

Record Meat Strike Ends; Workers Return To Jobs

CHICAGO, May 22—The nation's costliest and longest meat packing strike ended officially today against all but one of the industry's "big four" with a union order to withdraw picket lines.

The work stoppage had lasted 67 days.

The CIO-United Packinghouse Workers rejected a settlement with Wilson and Co.

Meanwhile, employees were preparing to return to their jobs at Armour, Cudahy and Swift plants with a nine-cent hourly wage increase.

Announcement of the end of the walkout was made last night in Chicago by UPW President Ralph Helstein after a nationwide referendum of a three-point settlement proposal made by Swift and Co.

RESULTS of the vote were not made public, and Helstein refused to participate in a news conference at which the announcement was made.

In addition to the pay boost, the Swift offer included:

2. Rehiring of strikers at the call of local plant superintendents.

At Least 5 Dead As Fishing Boat Founders At Sea

POINT PLEASANT, N. J., May 22—Five or more persons were believed drowned today when the fishing boat Squirt capsized in the ocean about one mile off Manasquan inlet.

Point Pleasant police said two bodies have been recovered and three or more persons are believed missing. The exact number of those aboard was not immediately known. Twenty-five of the rescued have been taken to Point Pleasant hospital.

Police said the two bodies have been identified as Charles R. Heidorn, 58, of Elizabeth, N. Y., and John Soehler, 57, Cranberry, N. J.

A nearby fishing boat saw the Squirt overturn and flashed the Coast Guard life boat station at Manasquan, which sped a rescue boat to the scene.

Survivors held to the overturned party boat and were rescued by several fishing boats and the Coast Guard.

Fight Ahead On AAA Plan

Southerners Press For More Funds

WASHINGTON, May 22—Southern senators prepared for a new fight Monday to increase soil conservation funds in the pending $580 million agriculture appropriation for fiscal 1949.

In its first attempt, the group lost by a 34 to 28 vote on the Unstead resolution, which would boost funds from conservation payments from the House-passed $150 million to $250 million.

Monday's fight will come on the Russell amendment, which would increase the $225 million authorization for administration and personnel of the AAA program for the 1949 crop year.

The Southern group was confident it could pick up some support from northern farm state senators on the demand of Sen. Russell, (D) Ga., for a more liberal fund for compensating farmers who cooperate in soil conservation programs.

BEFORE the Senate struck a snag over the Russell amendment, it approved committee amendments boosting the appropriation from the House-passed $545 million to $580 million.

Sen. Morse, (R) Ore., predicted (Continued on Page Two)

British Confirmation Is Lacking

Jerusalem Fight Is Continuing

TEL AVIV, May 22—Official Israeli sources claimed today that four Egyptian Spitfires were shot down by British Royal Air Force craft at Haifa but British and Egyptian confirmation was lacking.

The Egyptian craft were said to have been downed after attacking the British-held airfield.

In Jerusalem, Israeli forces besieged in the old city beat off nightlong attacks, holding off the Arab Legion in the northern sector of Sheikh Jarrah and at the Damascus gate below it.

Tel Aviv suffered two early-morning bombing raids.

The Israeli radio in Jerusalem reported that a heavy attack was launched this morning by the Arabs from the Ainkarm monastery in the Beit Vean suburb. The Jews counter-attacked in the Sheikh Geah suburb to the north.

THE SITUATION in the old city, where Jewish last-ditch defenders are holding out in ancient tunnels beneath the streets, was reported unchanged.

In London, the British air ministry checked the report that the Egyptian planes had been "shot down." There was no immediate clarification as to whether RAF fighter planes actually went into action with guns or merely overpowered the Egyptian (Continued on Page Two)

Sunny Weekend Ahead For Ohio, Forecasters Say

A sunny and warm weekend was in prospect for Ohio as the entire state moved into a period where killing frosts are taboo in weather bureau records.

Forecasters pointed out that Friday, May 21, is the latest date on record when a heavy frost occurred in Ohio. However, they warned that scattered light frosts still are possible up to Memorial Day or even later.

No rain was sighted before next Tuesday and observers said the mercury would show a gradual incline to something approaching a "heat wave."

Friday a wave of cool air moved into the state from Canada, but it moderated considerably as it moved southward.

Continued relief from rain was a boon to Ohio farmers who now are in the thick of their planting season. Most crops were reported off to a good start and there has been little or no damage from frost.

Passenger Dies

DAYTON, May 21—A St. Louis-to-Wilmington bus trip ended tragically today for 67-year-old Charles A. Moots of Martinsville. Moots was found dead in his seat when a Greyhound bus arrived at the Dayton terminal.

Theft Series Here Ended As Judge Cites Local Boys

Pickaway County juvenile court Friday enacted a scene that has become a serious problem to parents, youth and religious leaders when hearing was held for two 13-year-old Circleville youths accused of house breaking.

Both boys admitted breaking into the home of Dr. W. F. Heine and stealing a bank containing about $7 in change and the Mrs. Fred Fitzpatrick residence where a cameo ring was taken.

The youths were ordered by Judge Sterling M. Lamb to undergo an investigation period in the Bureau of Juvenile Research in Columbus. Period of internment usually covers four to six weeks, Judge Lamb said.

In the meantime, until accommodations can be made at the clinic in Columbus, the juveniles were placed in the custody of their parents.

Judge Lamb pointed out, however, that if either commits a crime between that time, the youths will be sent to the Boys Industrial School in Lancaster.

County authorities here are making every available effort to give proper guidance and consultation to their juvenile cases, Judge Lamb declared. In Friday's cases, a representative of the Boy Scouts, and church and legal spokesmen were called to add credence to the seriousness of crimes the youths are committing.

In the course of hearings, the boys were connected within the last two years to the theft of wallets, a dog collar, candy bars, a purse containing $60, 80 pounds of butter from a local tians by strength and shepherded them into forced landings.

The British control the airfield of Ramath David near Haifa and the port area. They have announced that no interference with their control by either Jews or Arabs will be tolerated. The British withdrawal from Palestine will not be completed until Aug. 1.

The Tel Aviv announcement said the four Egyptian planes had bombed the Ramath David field. It added that "large fires" had been started at the field by the bombing.

The Israeli government meanwhile protested to British officials against use of Egyptian planes of the Gaza airfield south of Tel Aviv and close to the Egyptian border.

BRITAIN'S consul in Jerusalem replied that the airfield still is officially British-controlled and promised to pass the protest along to the foreign office in London.

A war plane of Israel's air force was reported to have scored a direct hit on an Egyptian army ammunition train.

The aerial assault was said to have been carried out in a moonlight raid on the Gaza area, supply center for Egyptian units moving northward through Palestine.

Israeli land forces meanwhile battled against armies of three Arab states and claimed to have halted advances into Jewish areas everywhere but in Jerusalem.

A Jewish military spokesman admitted that the position of the defenders of the Jewish quarter of the old walled city is "serious." He added that Arab artillery is now shelling Israeli positions throughout the holy city.

Taft Out After Jersey Votes

PRINCETON, N. J., May 22—Sen. Robert A. Taft—with a weather eye on the Oregon primaries—resumes his quest today for New Jersey's 35 delegates to the Republican nominating convention.

The Ohio senator last night opened his Jersey campaign with an address at Princeton university, in which he warned of the dangers of too much military control in government.

New Jersey's 35 votes—pledged to Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll—but regarded as "open territory" by the Republican presidential aspirants, have already been sought by Harold E. Stassen.

New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey is expected in Trenton Wednesday to make his bid for the Garden State's delegates.

Accounts Filed In 2 Estates

First and final accounts were filed Friday by Carl C. Leist, executive and administrator of the separate estates of Mildred and Edward Clingan in Pickaway County probate court.

As executive of the former estate, Leist said credits and disbursements tallied at $3,513.78; and as administrator for the Edward Clingan estate he said charges and credits were equal at $1,467.08.

Lass, 3, To Get U.S. Citizenship

COLUMBUS, May 22—Friday will no doubt be a day of high confusion for three-year-old Virginia Lee.

On that day she will become the youngest person ever to be naturalized in federal district court at Columbus.

Virginia Lee is Canadian by birth. She was adopted by the Andrew H. Henrys of Westerville and has lived with them since she was two.

Some 40 others will be busily boning up on their history of the U. S. and studying the Constitution for their naturalization. In Virginia's case, however, her tender years require only two accomplishments—she must be adopted and she must have lived in this country for two years.

Dog's Devotion Foils Rescue

TOLEDO, May 22—A dog's unswerving devotion resulted in the death of its Toledo master late yesterday.

George F. Gomersall, 55, died of a heart attack, reportedly caused by a fight between his huge boxer, which he was taking for a walk, and a neighbor's cocker spaniel.

When Gomersall collapsed, the boxer stood over him, battling the spaniel and defying police and members of a fire department rescue squad. Police finally were forced to shoot both dogs. Gomersall was pronounced dead on arrival at Maumee Valley hospital.

Identical Faults Bring Same Fine

Glen Stearns of Cleveland and John Hughes of Lancaster received identical fines on identical traffic charges in mayor's court Friday.

Both men were fined $10 and costs by Mayor Thurman I. Miller for speeding 68 miles per hour Friday on U. S. Route 23 South of Circleville.

The speeders were apprehended by State Highway Patrolman F. E. Robinette.

dairy which the youths later peddled for 50 cents per pound and the two burglaries.

Judge Lamb said neither of the juveniles was first offender. Since these two cases were typical, the judge said he was unable to lay the blame either with the youth or parents.

In juvenile cases, he stated, "it is difficult to put your finger on the immediate trouble. It could be with the boy, with the family, or a combination of both."

"Regardless," he said, "juvenile delinquency is a growing menace to a healthy society." Every effort is being made to take the proper steps toward correction in Pickaway County juvenile court.

Sentence to the Bureau of Juvenile Research means the boys will be taken under medical observation. Here they will be treated by physicians and psychiatrists and psychologists in an attempt to determine the motive behind their actions.

Judge Lamb said these two boys had reached the point of graduation from the lesser crimes to more serious felonies.

He pointed a warning finger to all in the courtroom, "the next steps these boys may take might possibly be with a gun in their hands," Judge Lamb warned.

2 Men Killed In Poker Fight

CLEVELAND, May 22—An unidentified man shot and killed two persons and seriously wounded a third today in an argument at an alleged east side gambling den.

The victims were Jessie Mitchell, 29, and John H. Griffin, 28. Paul Wheaton, 19, was reported in serious condition in St. Vincent hospital.

They reportedly were shot as the result of a dispute between two gamblers. Police said the gun-wielder began firing after engaging in a heated argument with another poker player.

Columbus Men Fined In Court

Two Columbus men were fined in mayor's court Saturday in connection with a two-car accident near Scioto Creek bridge on Route 23 Friday night.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells, who arrived at the scene shortly after the smash up, said a car driven by Delbert Davis, 27, of Columbus, rammed the rear end of a car driven by Charles Bowers of near Circleville. The patrolman said the Bowers car, southbound on the highway, was waiting at the bridge for some northbound traffic.

Davis was fined $25 and costs for reckless operation by Mayor Thurman I. Miller at the hearing, and the other Columbus man, Fred Stoll, owner of the car driven by Davis, was fined $10 and costs for being drunk.

Injured Doctor Crawls 8 Miles After Accident

HUNTINGTON, Mass., May 22—A doctor crawled eight miles through the woods today despite an injured leg to tell a dramatic story of a plane crash which claimed the life of another doctor.

Killed was Dr. Ermin L. Ray, of the Northampton Veterans' hospital. The plane, a two-seater Cessna owned by Dr. Ray, crashed in the dense wilderness in last night's rainstorm as the two doctors were flying from New Jersey to Northampton.

Bleeding and dragging his injured leg was Dr. Ashton Tenney of Gardner.

Both men were flung free of the plane as it crashed in woods a mile south of Northfield Lake and burst into flames. Dr. Ray was found dead at the scene by his companion, who then started the long and tortuous crawl on hands and knees for help.

Most of the long hours were spent in breaking through dense underbrush to Mt. Pisgah road, a cart track about a half-mile from the scene of the wreck.

Once he reached the road, Dr. Tenney crawled a mile until he reached a Summer cottage. The cottage was unoccupied, so he smashed a window, crawled inside and found a telephone. He called state police at the nearby Russell Barracks and troopers rushed to the cottage and removed him to Noble hospital, Westfield for treatment.

Approval Asked On Injury Claim

Permission to receive a $500 injury claim settlement has been requested by Marvie Ferguson, guardian of Ossie Gamble, 19, in Pickaway County probate court.

Her petition claims Gamble was injured when hit by a manure spreader last November on the Famulener farm leased by Harold DeLong two miles east of Kingston.

While her claim states DeLong denies any liability for the accident, he allegedly has agreed to settle for $500. Medical expenses for Gamble's fractured leg amounted to $333.01, the petition states.

Truckers Escape Serious Injury

Two West Virginia truckers escaped serious injury Friday when their vehicle went out of control, tore through a fence and overturned on Route 65, one mile east of Mt. Sterling.

Charles J. Booth, 20, Stallings, driver of the truck suffered a minor back injury and his passenger, Charles Wells of Darwin escaped unhurt. Sheriff Charles Radcliff reported.

The careening truck loaded with lumber tipped down about 90 feet of fence owned by E. A. Rapp, the sheriff stated.

Sizeable majorities in Portland made Dewey's margin for the state seem decisive.

Dewey waged a three-week campaign which completely reversed the outlook in Portland. A third of the state's voters live in the city and other parts of Multnomah County.

Postage Stamp To Honor 4 Heroic Army Chaplains

On July 29, 1948, the U. S. Army's Corps of Chaplains will be 173 years old—within a few days of being as old as the Army itself.

Today, there are still 1,097 chaplains of all faiths on duty with the Army around the world, after a World War II peak strength of 8,171 in July, 1945.

Chaplains in the last great war were awarded 2,653 decorations, and 1,543 chaplains received them. Eighteen of them received the Distinguished Service Cross, and 167 rates the Silver Star. A total of 77 of them were killed in action, five died in a Japanese prison camp, and 253 were wounded in action.

That is an inspiring record for church and layman alike, and there isn't a soldier or veteran today who hasn't known the touch of a man of the Corps of Chaplains. In the strange circumstances, and stranger places that men feel the call to turn to God in either the ordeal of battle or daily life, the chaplain has always been at hand for guidance and help.

Next Friday, four chaplains who sacrificed their lives when the SS Dorchester sank Feb. 3, 1943, after being torpedoed off Greenland, will be commemorated on one of the issues of the Postoffice department, a gesture to the men of cloth in uniform.

Army officials consider this an important milestone in the existence of the Corps of Chaplains, which has always had its representatives at the side of and with the soldier.

The chaplains—John P. Washington, a Roman Catholic, Alexander D. Goode, Jewish, and George L. Fox and Clark V. Poling, Protestants—passed their own life preservers to soldiers leaping into the frigid Atlantic from the sinking ship.

The chaplains were last seen standing together in the bow of the ship, their arms linked and voices raised in prayer as the vessel plunged beneath the surface.

The commemorative stamp will bear likenesses of the four chaplains and a picture of the sinking ship in the foreground. An inscription will read: "These Immortal Chaplains... Iter-faith in Action."

Missionary Field Day Is Booked

Missionary Field Day will be observed at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Sunday morning in the worship service.

This is the Sunday in the year when church calendar when the thoughts of the people turn to the missionary work in the various fields of labor in the denomination.

After the worship through song and prayer, the Rev. James A. Herbst, pastor, will bring a message entitled, "A New View for a New Day."

For the special music of the morning Mrs. Andrew Goeller, accompanied by Miss Minnie Wilkerson, will sing a vocal solo. No evening service.

Methodists Set Sunday Program

First Methodist church opens its Sunday program of religious education at 9:15 a. m. Each department is organized with its own officers and teachers, having class work, and detailed plans for handwork and recreation for the entire lesson course. The school aims to set forth the principles of religious education as a guide for life's work.

Morning worship begins at 10:30, with Mrs. Leist at the organ. She will play for her special numbers: "Humoresque," by Dvorak; "Woodland Idyll," by Dale; and "Recessional" by Lorenz. The vested choir, directed by Mrs. Harold S. Defenbaugh, will sing the anthem: "Bless the Lord," by Ivanoff. The Rev. Elisha Kneisley, has selected for his sermon subject: "The Lure of the Future."

Biracial Vestry Is Organized

CAPE MAY, N. J.—The congregation of the Church of the Advent here has elected H. T. Alexander, Negro member of the congregation, to membership on the vestry.

The rector, the Rev. Albert Van Duzer, said, "I think this is a particularly fine thing for our church."

The parish is the only non-Roman one in Cape May which is biracial. Alexander has been active in the parish since coming to Cape May to live more than twenty years ago.

Church people regard the election as particularly heartening in view of the fact that Cape May is one of few communities in New Jersey where white and Negro children are segregated in the schools.

department of the church and economic life of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

During the war he was chairman of the national management-labor policy committee of the War Manpower Commission.

New Guinea Natives Vote Aid To Japs

GONA, New Guinea—When 21 new native churchmen met here recently to plan their work, under the chairmanship of a clergyman who had been a prisoner of the Japanese for three years, one of the wardens said, "I think God would be happy if we sent half the balance of our offerings to Japan and used half for our own school."

"Then we shall be replacing our things and helping those people who spoil our country to be better people, so that they will be helping ones, not spoiling ones. That is what I think God wants us to do, because we are His children."

To which the group replied, "These are good words and we shall do so."

They were people whose teachers had been killed and whose churches and schools had been destroyed by the Japanese during the war.

Talk Translated To Indian Tongue

MISSION, S. D.—Indians on the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota, wanted to hear a nationwide radio address on world relief recently.

They had no trouble in getting radio sets to receive the broadcast, but numbers of them do not understand English.

So when the broadcast was received, an Indian interpreter stood by the machine and translated the address into the native tongue.

Marines Pay Tribute To Heroes

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C.—Twenty-two large stained glass windows have been dedicated at Camp Lejeune's Protestant and Catholic Chapels—a lasting tribute from World War II Leathernicks to their buddies who were killed in action. Over a half-million Marines contributed to the memorial project.

Rear Admiral William N. Thomas, chief of Navy chaplains dedicated the windows in the Protestant chapel in a simple, dignified ceremony.

The Rev. Vincent S. Walters, bishop of Raleigh, officiated at the Catholic chapel. He said high pontifical mass and then blessed the windows.

Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the Marine Corps, many top ranking Marine and Navy officers, and distinguished religious and civil leaders were present for the solemn dedications.

The memorial was made possible through appropriations received from the six wartime divisions, the Third and Fifth Amphibious Corps—prior to their disbandment—and the Recreational and Welfare Division, Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps.

Each of the former combat units contributed the cost of a window which was dedicated in each chapel to Marine war dead.

The 12 windows of the Catholic chapel represent the Marine Division and Corps by medieval Saints who once were soldiers. Saint Joan of Arc is the only feminine subject to be used in the windows. She is representative of the Marine Corps Women's Reserve.

In each of the 10 windows at the Protestant chapel is shown a six-foot figure of an archangel of the heavenly host, portrayed in glowing color and rich in religious symbolism. At the foot of each figure is portrayed a memorable scene from Marine Corps history from the beginning of the Corps in 1775 down to the Pacific landings in World War II.

It was through the interests of Major General John Marston, former Commanding General of Camp Lejeune, that the Chapel windows were set with stained glass as memorials to the Marines who fought and died in World War II. In 1943 he presented his plan to the Commandant of the Marine Corps, General A. A. Vandegrift, and secured permission to go ahead with the project.

Both chapels were erected in 1942, were dedicated for divine service on January 27, 1943, and have since served thousands of Marines.

The Fiery Test of Moral Courage

Four Jewish youths, Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, were taken captive to Nebuchadnezzar's court, but they refused to eat the food and drink the wine at the king's table, and were allowed to live on Hebrew fare.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Book of Daniel.

At the end of the time set by the king, the four were brought before Nebuchadnezzar, who found none at court equal to Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego in all matters of wisdom and understanding.

Nebuchadnezzar made a golden image and demanded that all his subjects should worship it. Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego would not bow before the image and when the king was told he had them thrown into a fiery furnace.

Later King Darius signed a decree that anyone who petitioned any but him should be thrown into the lion's den. Daniel prayed to God and he was cast into the den with the lions. MEMORY VERSE—Daniel 2:20.

USING THE ATOM

RESULTS of new atomic bomb tests at Eniwetok presumably will bolster the sagging sense of security and well-being among those who put their trust in American ability to build super-weapons. Probably the announcement of the tests was calculated to attract interest also in certain other capitals.

Little is heard of the progress of efforts to find useful employment for the atom. Investigation toward this end is being carried out, however, although the secrecy surrounding atomic research makes it impossible to know whether the military or the civilian potentialities are receiving the greater attention.

It is of some comfort to conclude that until certain fundamental accomplishments are made there is little divergence between military and civilian paths of inquiry. The military is interested in devising the most powerful and deadly explosive possible, and while this is not a primary aim of civilian research it is quite necessary from the civilian use viewpoint to know the maximum potency and dangers of the atomic explosion. The first basic step toward getting useful work out of the atom is finding a means of precise, reliable control of the energy released by the dividing atom, and this also is high on the list of military aims.

For the present military and civilian research in nuclear fission are perhaps inseparable. Proper steps should be taken by Congress now to assure civilian research of the opportunity and means to proceed along its own paths, and to make certain that atomic energy does not become such a closely guarded military secret that civilian uses are hindered.

SALVAGING PEOPLE

"IF INDUSTRY would save human scrap as it does old metal and rags, thousands of down-and-outers could have useful lives and American wealth would be greatly increased."

This is the opinion of the American Business Men's Research Foundation, an organization representing 10,000 business men and 50 corporations throughout the country.

Backing its plea for salvaging derelicts, the foundation cited 80,000 unemployed in Chicago, who, if given a little help and medical care, could be returned to work, thereby producing an additional $100 million worth of consumer goods, according to the foundation.

This seems like sound business sense and good human relations both. When individual rehabilitation can be recognized as a material and social asset, progress in human relations is being made.

These Days

Collier's Magazine each year gives a prize to a member of the United States Senate and a member of the House of Representatives "For Distinguished Congressional Service". Along with the citation, a gift of $10,000 is given to each winner to be given to public purposes designated by the winner.

This year the prizes went to Alben W. Barkley, senator from Kentucky, and Christian A. Herter, representative from Massachusetts. Both are able men, Senator Barkley having led his party for many years; Congressman Herter having made a masterly investigation of conditions in Europe in connection with ERP. Barkley is a Democrat; Herter a Republican.

The setup surrounding this prize-giving is complex. Collier's keeps out of it, except for a representative in Washington. James C. Derieux, who acts as liaison between the publishers and a committee which makes the final selections. This year the committee was headed by Eric A. Johnston and consisted of 20 members.

In order to be adequately advised, the committee is provided with considerable data, including two polls. According to the setup, the committee forms its own conclusions and it may ignore all the polls and all the data provided. Why Collier's bothers busy men to make decisions which may be, and this year were, ignored, it is difficult to understand.

Perhaps, if the pollees knew that their votes did not count, they would save themselves the effort. The polls are kept confidential so that usually the candidates for the prizes as well as the public assume that the final decision of Collier's committee in some way reflects the polls.

For instance, 28 Washington newswriters, editors, broadcasters and columnists were polled this year in an "advisory poll." They were asked to make first, second and third choices. Twenty candidates for the senatorial prize appeared and the top five for first choice were as follows:

Taft, 12; Barkley, 3; Flanders, 3; Ives, 3; Tobey, 2.

An advisory nationwide poll of daily newspaper editors for the senatorial prize shows for the top five as first choice:

Taft, 113; Vandenberg, 45; Byrd, 21; Morse, 9; Barkley, 6.

For representative, the first five for first choice among the Washington newswriters, etc. shows:

Herter, 16; Eaton, 3; Halleck, 2; Joe Martin, 2; Dirksen, 1.

The nationwide poll of daily newspaper editors shows:

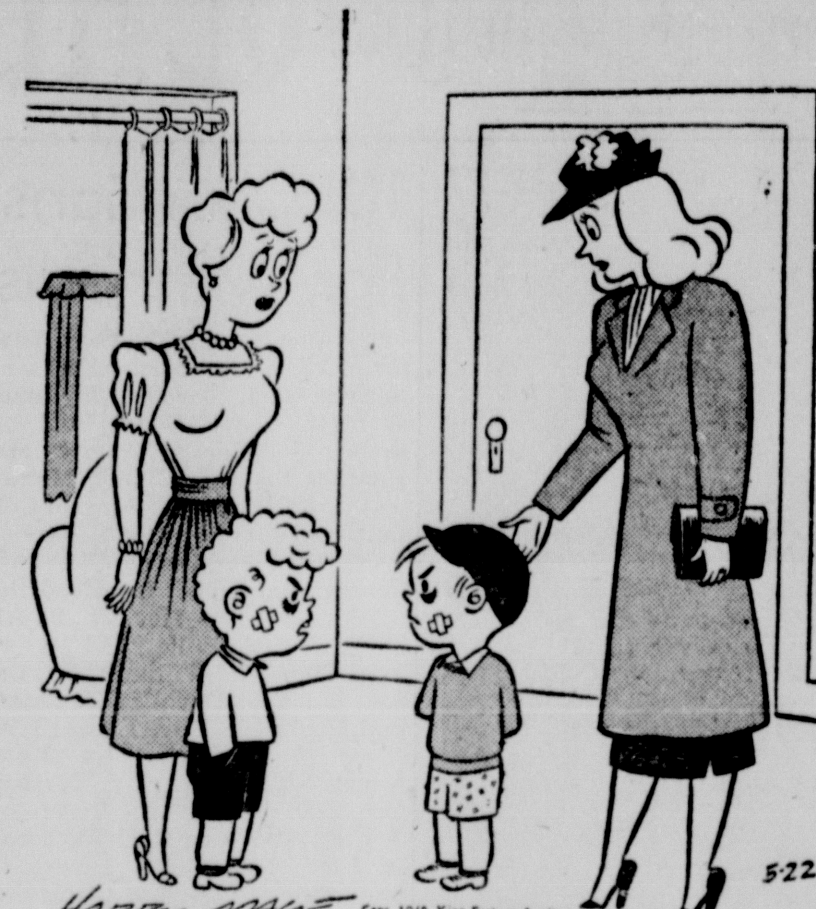

Joe Martin, 47; Hartley, 42; Herter, 31; Knutson, 14; Halleck, 12.

Regarding the Senatorial prize, the winner on the basis of both these polls would have been Sen. Robert A. Taft; for the congressional prize, it would lie between Herter and Martin. In spite of Taft's preference in both polls, the committee chose Barkley, who was second in one poll and fifth in the other.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAIN AIM OF A DOUBLE

DO YOU KNOW what is the principal purpose of a takeout or informative double? It is to help your side reach a game contract. If it can make a game, whether you be playing rubbers or duplicate. It is all well and good to realize, when you force a bid out of your partner by means of such a double, that he may be quite weak. But if your own hand is well above minimum for doubling and his compelled bid shows a nice fit, or if he later indicates some amount of strength by a voluntary bid, you should think of going on to the point you hoped for in the first place.

2 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠

That last bid by South was terrible. North had asserted the fact that he had some kind of real assets, in honors or extreme distribution, or both, with his voluntary call of 2-Hearts. South's shift from that to 2-Spades, a mere preference, indicated that his own double was based on an irreducible minimum, perhaps even being a bit shaded, or that he didn't fit either of North's suits any too well. In truth, South's holding was appreciably over minimum for a double, and his arrangement of honors and distribution were fine for a spade contract.

South, indeed, should have made a bid of 2-Spades over East's second call, of 2-Clubs, to show that his hand was some better than a minimum double and also fitted the spade response admirably. Had he done that, North would have leaped into game.

Having passed, as he did on that second turn, South should have welcomed North's free bid of 2-Hearts with open arms and should have rushed gleefully into game. Even the rankest coward should then have called 3-Spades instead of two, an invitation North might well have accepted with his spade A and his extremely fine distribution. North of course made game without difficulty, losing only one trick in hearts and two in diamonds, but couldn't score it because it wasn't bid.

Your Week-End Question
What should be the very first action you consider after your right-hand opponent has overcalled your partner's original bid with either a suit or No Trump bid?

DIET AND HEALTH

Study of High Blood Pressure

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ONE of the serious conditions which comes with middle age is that known to doctors as essential hypertension. This is high blood pressure, for which no definite cause can be found in heart, kidney, or blood vessel disease, as is the case in other types of increased pressure.

It is by far the most common kind of high blood pressure. For this reason, and because its cause is such a mystery, essential hypertension has been the subject of many studies. One of the most heartening of these was carried out recently by Drs. David W. Blood and George A. Perera. It is of great interest because it shows that people with this very common condition can and do live many years despite the increase in their blood pressure.

Fifty Patients

The records of fifty patients who, when first seen, had a blood pressure of more than 140 and who had no severe symptoms on their first examination, were carefully analyzed. Half of the patients had mild headaches as their only complaint. The average age of the patients was 42 years. These patients were watched on an average of 17 years, the shortest period being 10 years and the longest 27.

The study showed that there was a tendency for the blood pressure to increase gradually throughout the period of study. For example, the average blood pressure at the start was 182, and at the time of last observation was 204.

Other Symptoms

The patients also developed other symptoms during the course of the study. Some complained of tiredness, nervousness, dizziness, and rapid and noticeable beating of the heart. The most frequent complaint, occurring in three out of four patients, was headache, but most of these headaches were not of the severe type. The important thing is that almost half of the patients, at the end of this long period of observation, were living normal lives, getting along well, and suffering no severe symptoms. Only about one out of five developed serious complaints or had symptoms of beginning of heart failure.

It would seem, therefore, that it is not unusual, by any means, for those with high blood pressure to live a long period of time.

This one study alone should do much to relieve the minds of those who suffer from high pressure and who, unfortunately, tend to worry about their condition, a state of affairs which only helps to make it worse.

Of course, it is important that these patients be properly treated. There are many things which can be done to aid in keeping the disorder from progressing and to lessen the severity of the symptoms which may develop.

Freedom from Strain

Rest and freedom from strain are important. In those patients who are overweight, the use of a well-balanced reducing diet, with subsequent loss in weight, is often beneficial.

Of course, the complications of high blood pressure cause the greatest difficulty; yet, even when such things as heart failure develop, with proper treatment the patient may often survive several attacks. Thus, high blood pressure is not necessarily a hindrance to many years of useful, happy living.

Q. L. B.: Could gallbladder disease cause aching in my back and shoulder?

A. Answer: Gallbladder disease produces pain in these areas.

A thorough study, including an X-ray of the gallbladder, would be advisable.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

LIFE was disciplining her, Anne thought. Her part in the war, her experience with Alec and John, her return into business—All these had disciplined her, had taught her to put herself and her wishes into the background. She could step into the role Don offered her and play it creditably, she felt sure. That is, she could if she never saw John again.

Yes, she could do that. Or she could continue in her present job, forgetting about marriage, training herself to be more and more efficient, more and more interesting to whatever employer she might have, more intelligent and more charming. Making herself that way? Why? She answered herself honestly. Because it would pay dividends. Because her survival—with matrimony crossed off—would depend on it. But not for any truly big reason. Not because any man or any small child, lifting trusting eyes, needed her to be that way. In other words, she could work for herself, as Helen had always worked, being used by whatever business she was connected with simply because she happened to be there. Or she could work for Don and the children he might give her because he wanted her and no one else would do.

She lifted her head. Viewing it like that, and with her loneliness of the afternoon still upon her, there seemed to be no question about her answer. John was out of her reach. So he would remain. In time she would probably turn to some other man. Why not Don?

And why not now? He said, taking out his cigarettes and passing them to her, "I'm going to ask John to help me with my purchase. I don't know enough to go it alone. And I thought it would be a good idea to buy near him. Perhaps on neighboring land—" He stopped. "What's the matter?"

She was shaking her head, her brown eyes wide and startled. Not near John, she was thinking. I couldn't stand that! Seeing him every day—having him come into my house—Not near John. Not No!

He was holding his lighter for her but at sight of her face he withdrew it. She did not even notice. She sat there, holding her unlighted cigarette, just staring at him. He saw her wet her lips and try to speak—and quickly he spoke for her.

"So," he said quietly. "It's that way."

She pulled herself together. "Well, now you know," she told him, her voice breaking a little. "Maybe—ten years from now—we could work it out. I could be living near him, I mean. But not now, Don."

He nodded. There was a silence.

He saw her struggling for composure and the disappointment and anger that had enveloped him gave way first to pity and then, in turn, to the old heavy inertia and sense of futility. He was not destined to find any answer, he thought. He was not destined to have anything. He should have known. He had known. He had seen John's love for Anne but he had not wanted to see more. He had thought that with Alec out of the picture he could plan on Anne's return to him. Well, that was that.

He said, "You would rather spend those ten years waiting, though, wouldn't you, in the hope that somehow life would work out for you both?"

His watchful, narrowed eyes saw the flame of eagerness that sprang up in her eyes and quickly died. She said, her voice low, "Yes. But—it's no good. Helen won't have it. As long as she lives she won't have it. So—" Her smile trembled above her tear-filled eyes. "If you want me—understanding everything—"

He crushed his cigarette in the little dish before him. "You're wonderful!" he exclaimed, suddenly the light-hearted Don he had always been. "Perfectly wonderful! Let's go somewhere and dance."

It was April—and Saturday afternoon—and Helen was home from the office in the little apartment she had rented for the winter. It was not an attractive apartment, nor located at all where she had hoped to be when she had first thought of coming in to New York. But it was the only one she had been able to find. She had sublet it from a couple who had gone to Florida for the winter and soon—all too soon—they would be returning to claim it again. And what was she going to do then? It was one of the things that bothered her.

There were other things, too. The editorship to which Art Hopkinson had not yet raised her, although Denton had been out with illness three times in the past three months and she had had to do all of her work in his absence. You would certainly think that would raise a raise. But there were rumors that Hopkinson and Allen was going to merge with another publishing house and if that were true, there would be a whole lot of shifting around of personnel. Helen might be out on her ear for all she could tell. Having to start over again somewhere.

She frowned and moved to the divan and sat down on it with one foot tucked under her, a cigarette in her fingers, an ash tray in her lap.

There were those two worrisome items—and still that was not all. Things weren't working out at all.

as Helen had anticipated they would here in New York. Not at all. Imagine a Saturday night creeping up on her and not a date in sight! She might call Frank Tennant, only—well, she felt uncertain about him lately. Twice he had been tied up when she had tried to get in touch with him. Was he really shelving her? Of course there was only one way to find out.

She reached for the telephone and picked it up from the little stand beside her, then put it down again. She was honestly afraid to risk another rebuff. For if Frank took himself away, what was left for her in New York? Not that she didn't know plenty of people; she did, of course—she had been dawdling on her lately that they bothered with her only when she gave the parties and footed the bill. The rest of the time she was forgotten.

"I'm not important enough," she thought bitterly. "I'm not a budding author or a newly discovered artist. And I'm not amusing in my own right. Not witty or clever. Not a clown. I can't provide the laughs they want and I'm tired of providing the refreshments."

There it was—out at last. The admitted confession that she was clinging to the most precarious hold to the gray and careless group with whom she had identified herself. At first it had been easy. She was someone not altogether known, someone to discover and discuss—her reasons for leaving Stone House, her present affairs, her future plans; she had provided a new source of gossip. And her apartment had been a new hang-out for the gang. They had found it diverting to groan over her over its impossible furnishings, to offer her advice on doing it over, to watch her progress—even laughingly contribute a little help and a few donations or two—and finally, to come, when she was done, with praise and applause to drink her drinks and eat her food. They had done that quite regularly for two months—until Allen Kendall arrived back in the city. Allen with her exciting war experiences and her aura of scandal. After that they had all looked to her place. They were probably going there tonight. She could go, too, of course, if she chose. But she had heard the way people talked when a woman appeared unescorted. "She's slipping..." Must be she's showing her age..."

Helen crushed her cigarette viciously into the little dish she was holding and put it from her with a movement of sharp impatience. She was right back where she had started. It was spring. She had to move. Where was she going? Did she want to stay in the city or—

'Round Circleville - - - Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to another fine Spring morning, but to the West did note clouds and a threat of rain. Don't need it yet, not for a few more days when the corn crop should be in. Maize already up in the fields of a few fortunate farmers. Season about three weeks ahead of last year, but those three weeks are important, meaning the difference of a great many thousands of dollars hereabouts.

Soon downtown, there to find a letter and tickets to the 500 mile auto race at Indianapolis May 31. My really big sporting event of the year. For a long period of time did know most of the men managing the event, but they have passed out of the picture so now I am just another spectator. But I have seen the races from the pits, have spent time in the garages where I had close-ups of the mighty racing cars, have met many of the drivers and have been a guest on several occasions to the banquet after the races when the prizes are awarded. A real thrill those racers provide for me. More than any other. So, when they thunder down the straightaway on their first running lap this year I will be there again, and when the winner crosses the line some four hours later I will be there, standing and ignoring the fact that I am worn out. I drive right along, in imagination, with some of the boys. And that is work, hard work.

Vickie is missing. Just disappeared without trace. Vickie is, or was, the Funk family's black Pekingese dog. A mighty fine little fellow, known and liked all over the South Court street territory he ranged and where most homes looked alike to him. He was happy and contented almost anywhere there was food and special attention. A valuable little fellow, too. Pekes cost folding money. Better go home, Vic, if you read this. You are missed.

Chatted with Bud Harden who declared himself in full accord with this column's contention that the time is here when the High School band should demand a fair cut on the gate of athletic contests or cease playing for them. Others, many of them, have voiced the same opinion.

There goes Jim Stout puzzling over whether or not he should spend the week-end in Marietta where a big registered rifle match is slated and which will draw shooters from six or seven states. Jim is "hot" right now, showing the way to all local shooters in the C. O. R. L. match held here last Sunday.

Looked in on Charlie Glitt's restaurant where great remodeling is underway and then choked in the dust raised by improvements in progress at City Hall. Had coffee with Jim Yost, passed the time of day with Dick Simkins and bowed to Durward Dowden.

Pondered over a peculiar situation. Four years ago, along with Paul Rodenfels, did buy a boat at Wayne lake. Paul, before leaving the village, talked about selling the boat, but I have no memory of the actual transaction. Saw the boat for the first time a couple weeks ago and thought it belonged to another man because of his name being painted on it, but was advised that it was my boat. Tom Brannon also saw the boat, decided it belonged to the man whose name it bore, bought it from a relative, calked, painted and repaired it and was ready to use it for fishing when advised that it was mine. Maybe I've got a good boat. I won't know until Paul answers my letter. If he sold it, then Tom has done all that work for someone else. And I'm selfish enough to hope it was done for me.

But, think of the poor fellow who lost it! Don't risk losing your money by carrying cash. At home, depend on your checking account. When traveling, take along travelers checks.

Junior Class Of High School Sponsors Annual Prom For Graduates

Johnny Carl Plays For Friday Dance

Decorations of Chinese influence provided a festive background for the outstanding event of the commencement season when the junior class of Circleville high school feted the seniors with its annual prom Friday evening in Memorial hall.

Entrance to the dance floor was by way of narrow pagodas where decorations consisting of red and green lights, Buddhas and Chinese lanterns along with other ornamental features suggestive of the theme. Twisted ropes of gold and green crepe paper formed a false ceiling.

A 16-foot "winking" dragon extended across the entire back wall which was the handwork of Lee Smith of Pickaway Township. The balcony, was outlined in large letters, G-O-O-D L-U-C-K S-E-N-I-O-R-S. Complimenting the guest group; class colors of scarlet and grey were used at strategic spots.

The band stand on the stage was festooned with Chinese inscriptions before a background representing a pagoda. Exits were marked by typical Chinese roof tops and pagodas.

The girls, gowned in formal frocks of pastel shades, and the boys showed clever mastery over the many intricate steps of the newest dances.

Johnny Carl and his Columbus orchestra played popular tunes at the long anticipated and traditional prom.

The Misses Jean Heine and Lannie Given were co-chairmen of the social event. Decorations were arranged by Doris Hill, Marilyn Schumm, Bob Brown, Marilyn Cupp, Patty Yaple, David Crawford, Mack Schumm, Jack Young, Dean Smallwood and Sally Mogan.

The scarlet and gray programs were prepared by Leona Wise, Ruth Walisa, Betty Strawser and Edward Wolf. Dick Willoughby arranged the entertainment. In charge of invitations were Marilyn Hennis, Reta Martin, Virginia Griner, Jean McCain and Mary Jane Neff.

Refreshments were dispensed by Betty Skinner and Louis Radcliff, co-chairmen, Bob Phillips, Merle Swank, Lois Campbell, Virginia Moats and Jo Ann Hoffman. They were assisted by members of the high school faculty.

Vandervorts Host Harper Class Meet

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vandervort were hosts to Harper Bible class of First Evangelical United Brethren church Friday evening in their home on Watt street. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Styers were assisting hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moats lead the devotionals as the group sang two hymns and Mrs. Moats read from the Scriptures. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Paul Dawson.

During the business session, the books were closed for the year and final reports submitted. Charles Kirkpatrick, who will assume the office of president June 1, appointed Frank Moats, Mrs. Vandervort and Robert Dick to arrange a June picnic.

Mrs. Dawson, program leader, presented Mrs. Clarence Radcliff in a reading entitled "Grandmother's Philosophy." Contests conducted by the program leader were won by Mrs. Robert Dick and Clarence Radcliff.

Twenty-three members and their guests were served refreshments.

Each Call Is "TAILOR-MADE"

IT TAKES A LOT MORE THAN JUST A TELEPHONE TO PROVIDE TELEPHONE SERVICE

To serve one more family, we must install and connect a telephone—and also provide a special circuit running all the way to the central office, an outlet on the switching equipment, and furnish various other complex mechanisms so each call can be tailor-made to meet your needs.

New telephone facilities are still difficult to obtain. Existing facilities have been S-T-R-E-T-C-H-E-D beyond all former limits to give the best possible service to the most people. Much of our central office equipment is loaded to capacity.

This means that many requests for service cannot be filled immediately. We appreciate the understanding and patience shown by those on the telephone waiting list and will do everything in our power to meet everyone's needs as soon as humanly possible.

"The Incredible Crosby", "Der Bingle" that is will bring his niblick to Radio City to make a guest appearance with Fred

Allen on Sunday at 8:30 p. m. over NBC.
Boy soprano Bobby White will also join Allen's Alley regulars, the Five Singing DeMarco Sisters, and Al Goodman and his orchestra for this show.
Since biographies of famous personalities seem to be the order of the day, Fred Allen has written his version of "The Life of Crosby." Unlike most biographical presentations, Allen's will feature the subject as the star. After the publication of the recent book about Crosby, Fred started his own research digging up little known facts about the fabulous warbler.

The Martin version boasts three popular songs: "For Every Man There's a Woman", "What's Good About Goodbye?" and "It Was Written in the Stars".
When there's a legacy of three million dollars at stake it is logical to suppose that an impostor might try to claim the money. However, when three "heirs" make their appearance, "Nick Carter, Master Detective" thinks things have gone far enough, as he tells during "The Case of the Tattooed Cobra" on his broadcast Sunday at 4 p. m. over NBC.
The odd thing about the case was that all three claimants are the possessors of the key identifying mark, a coiled snake tattooed around their thumb. However, the task of uncovering the impostors becomes a murder case when two of the men meet sudden death.
Two of Detroit's better known singing groups will be heard in a special Mutual network broadcast on Sunday at 12 a. m. They are the Male Choristers and the First English Lutheran Choir. groups are directed by Dr. Nellie Huger Ebersole, chairman of the Committee of Hymnology and Congregational Singing of the National Federation of Music Clubs.
Two of Europe's most famous jewel thieves are outwitted by Mutual's "Sherlock Holmes" when he beats them at their own game at famous Waterloo station during "The Case of the Accommodating Valise" scheduled for broadcast Sunday at 7:30 p. m. One of the many tragic repercussions of World War II, that of the printing of bogus United States currency by a group who confiscated a Nazi money press, will be dramatized for Mutual's "True Detective Mysteries" broadcast Sunday at 4:30 p. m. Pickaway Farmers Eye Congress' New Parity Program

Big Change In Plan Is Feared Here

Price Supports Claimed Needed

Farm administration experts in Pickaway County are casting a wary eye toward Washington where Capitol Hill legislators are drafting major changes in the farm program.

Close on the heels of Washington's proposal to cut in half last year's overall $300,000,000 farm appropriation comes now a three-point plan that will cut price support security and make drastic changes in administration of various farm programs.

Here are the three suggested changes:

(1) Cut price support to less than 90 percent of parity. (2) Draft administrative changes, and (3) the elimination of direct-elected committee administration.

Farm leaders here feel any such major changes as are proposed by the government will make deep inroads into an already stable farm administration program.

SINCE THE passage of the Agriculture Adjustment Act of 1938, farmers and committeemen have worked with the plan and found it flexible enough to meet any situation that arose, the experts agree.

They claim the American farmers used the program in peace and war to protect their business and at the same time provide ample food and fibre for the nation.

In the 10 years since passage of the bill, farmer-elected committees have administered the program locally to the best interest of the nation and went unquestioned by the people or by Congress.

Of deep concern is the government's talked-of plan to reduce price support to less than 90 percent of parity.

While most farm commodities are now well above parity, should they drop to that point, the farmers' income would suffer considerably, experts claim.

The proposal that support prices be permitted to drop to 40 percent below parity level would be regarded as a calamity, Pickaway County farm administrators agree.

Also under consideration is a proposed division of various programs between different groups at the county and state level. Spokesmen here say this would undermine and destroy the overall program now in operation and take the leadership away from the farmer.

Circleville Man To Receive His Doctorate Of Medicine June 4

Robert Gaylord Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rockford C. Brown, of 403 East Mound street, Circleville, will receive his doctorate of medicine degree June 4 from the Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia.

Dr. Brown, who was graduated by Circleville high school in 1941, was active in both student affairs and athletics. He was president of the Stogie Club, president of his graduating class, a member of the Hi-Y organization, and co-captain of the football team in 1940.

Following graduation from high school, Dr. Brown entered Tusculum college, Greeneville, Tenn., in the Fall of 1941 as a pre-medical student. While in college, he took part in many extra-curricular activities.

He was a member of the Student Council, president of Craig Hall, president of the Archiatus Pre-medical society, and class president. In December 1942, he enlisted in the Army Reserve Corps. In 1943, he was voted a member of Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. Dr. Brown left Tusculum in June, 1944, and received his bachelor of arts degree in 1946.

IN OCTOBER 1944, he entered the Jefferson medical college and became a member of the Phi Beta Pi medical fraternity. He was also elected a member of the honorary Kappa Beta Phi fraternity. During his senior year in medical school, Dr.

rated for an occasion which is expected to draw thousands of visitors from throughout the state. Several movie stars will take part in the celebration.

DR. ROBERT BROWN

Brown was president of the Phi Beta Pi fraternity.

Dr. Brown served his junior internship at the Norwich state hospital in Norwich, Conn. He will serve his senior internship at the Wayne County General hospital, Elmore, Mich., following which he plans to enter the field of general surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Orren Stout, Richard Brentlinger and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Brown of Circleville will attend graduation exercises in June.

British Dislike Yankee Probe

LONDON, May 22—British newspapers reacted sharply today to news of a U. S. congressional probe to determine whether American aid is being used by Britain to assist Arab states.

The influential Manchester Guardian, long sympathetic to Zionism, called on Britain to advise Arab states to stop attacking Israel.

Most other newspapers confined themselves to the observation that Britain is merely fulfilling treaty obligations by sending arms to Arab nations.

Gasoline Truck Threatens Area

COLUMBUS, May 22—A flaming semi-trailer truck loaded with gasoline threatened downtown Columbus yesterday afternoon before firemen quenched the blaze.

The truck, carrying almost 4,000 gallons of gasoline, caught fire when the driver, Bob Montag, 30, of Columbus, started the motor.

Firemen prevented an explosion by playing hoses on the under section of the loaded tank where flames were shooting the carriage.

3 City Officials To Be Featured In Kiwanis Forum

Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday evening is to instigate an open forum with the city's three top officials on the receiving end of a series of questions.

Club officials said that Mayor Thurman I. Miller, Joseph Rooney, city service director, and John Bolender, city safety director, have stated they would appear.

The meeting, to be held in Pickaway Country Club, will be featured by questions pertaining to the city administration, obligations and duties.

Some questions already have been submitted to the three officials and their answers will be given Monday. Other questions will come spontaneously from the floor.

Club officials believed that the forum may lead to an extended series in which other groups, such as county officials, educators, etc., may be called before the club for a no-holds-barred question-answer session.

Police Helping Evicted Pair

COLUMBUS, May 22—The Columbus police department took a 70-year-old widow and her invalid son under its wings today after they were evicted from their home.

Mrs. Anna Wyant and her son, Walter, 30, were evicted from the residence yesterday and refused to leave their furniture, which was piled on the curb. Police spread tarpaulins over the furniture, but the couple rejected an offer of cots at police headquarters. They slept last night in a neighbor's automobile. Authorities were attempting to contact a daughter of Mrs. Wyant.

Build this Improved FIREPLACE that Circulates Heat

For Homes, Camps and Basement Rooms

THE HEATILATOR FIREPLACE circulates heat to every corner of the room and adjoining rooms. Saves the heat that ordinary fireplaces waste up the chimney. The scientifically designed heating chamber of the Heatilator Fireplace is concealed in the masonry where it draws cool air from floor level, heats it, and returns it to the room.

Heatilator installation eliminates the usual causes of smoking. It saves fuel bills during cool weather. Puts no limit on mantel design. Adds but little to the cost of the finished fireplace.

See the Heatilator Fireplace in our display room, or phone for illustrated folder and low prices.
